

State Department of Education/Public Instruction COVID-19 Information/Guidance on School Closures and Reopening

As states reopen, reassessing the impact of COVID-19 while maintaining community safety and health is paramount. All 50 states and the District of Columbia have released guidance for districts on school reopening, and several have released additional or updated guidance. When and how schools have reopened are largely determined by local district, board of education and health authorities - although in some states, school reopening was determined by the Governor. In addition to state guidance, other considerations include: state and local public health mandates, state and community COVID-19 data, and implementing safety measures to protect students, families, and school personnel.

Reopening options included one or a combination of the following: virtual or remote learning; in-person; or a hybrid. Districts continue to adjust plans as state status' and COVID-19 data is updated, and they are prepared for any changes that may arise.

Under current discussion is the status of high sports and other extra-curricular activities, with several states delaying or altering the Fall sports season. For the most current list, visit the National Federation of State High School Associations (NFHS) website.

The situation changes rapidly, and we try our best to maintain the information and links. Please visit your state department of education and local school district websites for the most current information.
